

Lawyer

Professional career

Mr. Langevin advises government bodies and unionized and non-unionized companies in a variety of sectors with respect to labour relations, human rights and freedoms, more precisely regarding the duty of reasonable accommodation, and occupational health and safety issues. He has developed an expertise in drafting contracts of employment and more specifically restrictive clauses such as non-competition and non-solicitation clauses. Mr. Langevin specializes in occupational health and safety management, which brings him to advise companies and governmental bodies regarding their occupational health and safety obligations and to represent these companies and government bodies before different tribunals as to civil, administrative and penal matters. Mr. Langevin also acts as a conference speaker.

Implications

- LL.B., Law, 2004, Laval University

Contact

☎ 418-640-4456
✉ jere-
mie.langevin@st
einmonast.ca

Language(s)

French and English

Offered services

- Administrative and municipal law
- Human Rights
- Labour and employment law
- Occupational Health and Safety

Formation

LL.B., Law, 2004, Laval University

Called to the bar

2008