

Élisabeth Lachance

Lawyer

Professional career

Me Élisabeth Lachance practices litigation, mainly in the fields of insurance law as well as civil and professional liability.

As a litigator, she represents professionals, insurers, businesses and various construction professionals before civil courts and advises them on the strategy to adopt in the event of a dispute.

Because of her rigorous management of the cases in which she takes part, Me Lachance inspires confidence and respect among both her clients and her peers. She also stands out for her pragmatic approach to cases and her communication skills.

Me Lachance has a keen interest in litigation and dispute prevention and resolution. She has written several articles on civil and litigation procedures as well as being involved in the legal and business community, including as a speaker.
